

3.6.3 Making human resource decisions: improving organisational design and managing the human resource flow

Content	Additional information
Influences on job design	Job design to include Hackman and Oldham's model.
Influences on organisational design	Decisions relating to organisational design include: • authority • span • hierarchy • delegation • centralisation and decentralisation.
Influences on delegation, centralisation and decentralisation
The value of changing job and organisational design
How managing the human resource flow helps meet human resource objectives	Human resource flow to include: • human resource plan • recruitment • training • redeployment • redundancy.