

3.6.3 Making human resource decisions: improving organisational design and managing the human resource flow

Content	Additional information
Models of organisational structure	Organisational structures to include: • functional • product-based • regional • matrix structure.

Content	Additional information
Influences on organisational design	Decisions relating to organisational design include: • authority • span • hierarchy • delegation • centralisation and decentralisation.
The value of changing organisational design
How managing the human resource flow helps meet human resource objectives	Human resource flow to include: • human resource plan • recruitment • training • redeployment • redundancy.