

3.5.1 Re-presentation

Content	Guidance notes
The ways in which the media re-present (rather than simply present) the world, and construct versions of reality. Theoretical perspectives on representation, including processes of selection, construction and mediation. The processes of: • selection • construction • mediation.	Realism: reasons why some representations seem more truthful or realistic than others. Critical exploration of views including: • the media is a window on the world • the media is the message.