

3.6.5 Evaluation and review

Students must understand the importance of evaluating statistical work including:

- identifying weaknesses in approach or representation
- suggesting improvements to processes or the presentation
- refining the process to elicit further clarification of the initial hypothesis.