

1.35 describe an ionic crystal as a giant three-dimensional lattice structure held together by the attraction between oppositely charged ions