

The production process	Methods of production	• distinguish between methods of production: job, batch, flow and cell • evaluate the impact and importance of the choice of production method for a business and its stakeholders • evaluate the reasons for the choice of production method • explain what is meant by specialisation and the division of labour • explain the reasons for the introduction of specialisation and division of labour into a business • evaluate the impact and importance of specialisation and division of labour for a business and its stakeholders.
-------------------------------	------------------------------	--

Area of Study	Content	Learners should be able to:
The production process	Services	• explain the production process for the provision of services • explain what is meant by customer service in the context of the provision of services • evaluate the importance to a business and its stakeholders of high quality customer service.