

2.1 Atoms and reactions

This section builds directly from GCSE Science, starting with basic atomic structure and isotopes.

Important basic chemical skills are developed: writing chemical formulae, constructing equations and calculating chemical quantities using the concept of amount of substance.

The role of acids, bases and salts in chemistry is developed in the context of neutralisation reactions.

Finally, redox reactions are studied within the context of oxidation number and electron transfer.