

C: Comparing and contrasting texts The focus of this section is on exploring linguistic connections and comparisons between different modes of communication.	Learners should be prepared to compare a variety of texts, exploring the effects of mode and of language variations. For example, learners should be prepared to compare spoken and written texts; spontaneous and crafted speech; and different forms of spoken English, including individual and social varieties of English, and British regional dialects. Learners should focus on analysing linguistic features. However, they may choose to apply theoretical concepts and issues broadly, for example with reference to gender or power.	• show, in relation to unseen texts, knowledge and understanding of the language levels, including: – phonetics, phonology and prosodics: how speech sounds and effects are articulated and analysed – lexis and semantics: the vocabulary of English, including social variation – grammar, including morphology: the structural patterns and shapes of English at sentence, clause, phrase and word level – pragmatics: the contextual aspects of language use – discourse: extended stretches of communication occurring in different genres, modes and contexts
