

Section 5: Conclusions and investigation evaluation. (12 marks)

Level 4	10–12 marks • There are clear, accurate and thorough conclusions linked to the aims or questions or hypotheses, communicated by means of extended writing. • Draw effectively on primary and secondary evidence and, where appropriate, theory to provide a very well-argued case and shape conclusions. • There is convincing evidence that conducting the investigation extended geographical understanding with clear reference to the wider geographical context of the investigation. • There is a strong evaluation of the overall success of the investigation with reference to the reliability of data sources, data collection methods (including sampling), the accuracy of data collected and the extent to which it is representative, and the validity of the analysis and conclusions. • There is a thorough understanding of the ethical and socio-political dimensions of field research and data presentation.
Level 3	7–9 marks • There are clear conclusions linked to the aims or questions or hypotheses, communicated by means of extended writing. • Draw on primary and secondary evidence and, where appropriate, theory to make a well-argued case and shape conclusions. • There is some evidence that conducting the investigation extended geographical understanding with reference to the wider geographical context of the investigation. • There is an evaluation of the overall success of the investigation with reference to the data sources, data collection methods, the accuracy of data collected and the extent to which it is representative, and validity of the analysis and conclusions. • There is a reasonable understanding of the ethical and socio-political dimensions of field research and data presentation.
Level 2	4–6 marks • There is a limited attempt to reach conclusions which are linked to the aims or questions or hypotheses, communicated by limited means of extended writing • Elements of primary and secondary evidence and, where appropriate, theory link to the argument and conclusions. • There is limited evidence that conducting the investigation extended geographical understanding with limited reference to the wider reference to the wider geographical context of the investigation. • There is an evaluation of the investigation through reference to isolated aspects of the investigation. • There are basic comments on the ethical and socio-political dimensions of field research and data presentation.
Level 1	1–3 marks • Basic, often unsupported conclusions which have few links to the aims or questions or hypotheses. • Limited elements of primary and/or secondary evidence linked to arguments and conclusions. • There is no evidence that conducting an investigation extended geographical understanding with no reference to the wider geographical context of the investigation. • The evaluation is very limited to the identification of a few basic errors and problems. • There is no comment on the ethical and socio-political dimensions of field research and data presentation.
