

Topic B6: Global challenges

This topic seeks to integrate learners' knowledge and understanding of biological systems and processes, with the aim of applying it to global challenges. Biological information is used to help people to improve their own lives and strive to create a sustainable world for future generations. This topic provides opportunities to draw together the concepts covered in earlier topics, allowing synoptic treatment of the subject.