

1.2 What students need to learn

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|--|
| 1 Overview | Students should be encouraged to develop their performance skills by playing a range of styles of music, as a soloist and/or an ensemble member, using scores or improvising, as appropriate. |
| 2 Performance from a score | Students should learn the importance of attention to accuracy of pitch and rhythm when performing from a score. They should work on their instrumental tone and technique and ensure that they observe performance directions for phrasing, articulation, dynamics and tempo. They should also recognise the importance of fluency and ensure that the overall outcome is effective in terms of communication, interpretation and style. |
| 3 Improvised performance | Students who choose to improvise should learn to play a chosen stimulus accurately, and to exploit and develop its potential. They should pay attention to the balance of unity and to structure generally. They should work on their instrumental tone and technique and demonstrate their ability to handle a range of timbres and textures. They should also recognise the importance of fluency and ensure that the overall outcome is effective in terms of communication, interpretation and style. |
| 4 Ensemble performance | Students who choose to perform in an ensemble should in addition to accuracy and other essentials of effective performance described above pay attention to balance and the demands of other parts. |
