

	2.2 Why is it important to understand technological developments in product design?
	a. Be able to critically evaluate how new and emerging technologies influence and inform the evolution and innovation of products in both contemporary and potential future scenarios.

