

B: The academic poster	The academic poster is a way to communicate about a complex topic (the learner's investigation) in a concise and visually accessible way. The aim of the learner's academic poster is to produce a well-researched and effectively organised overview of the learner's own independent investigation in a form that would be suitable for display at an undergraduate conference for English language research. The poster presentation is a recognised academic discipline and provides an opportunity for learners to demonstrate their ability to distil the detail of their investigation into its core features and findings. The poster should also include a reflection section, exploring limitations to the study, and potential next steps. The word count for this activity is 750–1000 words. The poster will assess the learner's ability to use English in a way that matches the requirements of the academic poster discipline. The focus of the task is to meet the purpose of this form of writing, rather than to present in an 'artistic' manner. Assessment therefore will consider control of style and accuracy but not the aesthetic nature of the final poster.	• show understanding of how the different areas of study connect across their course as a whole • apply critical and creative skills in production of texts and discourses • use accurately a range of terminology associated with the study of language • make accurate references to texts and sources • synthesise and reflect on knowledge and understanding drawn from their studies of English language • apply critical and creative skills in the production of their poster • demonstrate expertise in the use of English to communicate effectively.
