

Content of Literature post-1900

The aim of this internally assessed component is to encourage individual study, interest and enjoyment of modern literature and for learners to develop:

- an appreciation of how writers shape meanings in texts through use of language, imagery, form and structure

- an understanding of texts informed by an appreciation of different interpretations
- an ability to explore connections across texts, such as stylistic, thematic or contextual.

Literary texts requirements:

Learners are required to study three literary texts. The three texts must include one prose text, one poetry text and one drama text:

- the texts must have been first published or performed in 1900 or later
- at least one of these texts must have been published or performed in 2000 or later
- one of the texts may be a significant or influential text in translation.

Centres and learners must select texts in groupings that facilitate links or contrasts, in order to develop the ability to explore how texts illuminate and connect with each other. Texts should be selected on the basis of offering learners a range of work of literary merit and significance.

Centres and learners are free to choose their own texts for this non examined assessment component. For suggested reading and groupings, please see Appendix 5e.

This non examined assessment component should be seen as an opportunity for learners to develop their independent skills of reading and research. It is therefore advisable to create opportunities for learners to exercise some choice of texts for study.

Learners may not study A level examination set texts for the non examined assessment component. This includes all set texts for Component 01 and the ten core set texts for Component 02. The suggested set texts for Component 02 may be used for non examined assessment, unless they are being studied for the examination.

A consultancy service is available to advise on appropriate texts and task titles.

Literature post-1900 requirements:
Task	Knowledge, skills and understanding	Learners should be able to:
Close reading OR Re-creative writing with commentary.	Learners are required to demonstrate close reading skills.	analyse ways in which meanings are shaped in the chosen literary text
Both of these tasks must be	Learners are required to	articulate informed, personal