

1.8 ENVIRONMENTAL EDUCATION, EUROPEAN DIMENSION AND HEALTH AND SAFETY ISSUES

While the work developed in teaching this specification may use examples, particularly involving modelling and statistics, that raise environmental issues, these issues do not in themselves form part of the specification.

The work developed in teaching this specification may at times involve examples that raise health and safety issues. These issues do not in themselves form part of this specification.

OCR has taken account of the 1988 Resolution of the Council of the European Community and the Report Environmental Responsibility: An Agenda for Further and Higher Education, 1993 in preparing this specification and associated specimen assessment materials.

Teachers should be aware that students may be exposed to risks when doing coursework. They should apply usual laboratory precautions when experimental work is involved. Students should not be expected to collect data on their own when outside their Centre.

Teachers should be aware of the dangers of repetitive strain injury for any student who spends a long time working on a computer.
