

2.1 Graphic design and conventions

Concepts of graphic design

- Application of visual identity
- Alignment
- Typography
- Use of colour and colour systems
- Use of white space

Layout conventions for different graphic products and purposes

- Additional information
- Headlines and copy
- Image content
- Titles and mastheads

To include:

- The importance of graphic designs that incorporate visual identity and house style
- Why typography is important to convey clear messages using suitable text fonts and sizes
- Colour systems and colour trends e.g. Pantone, NCS
- Using colour to convey the intended meaning
- Typical layouts for
 - advertisements
 - CD/DVD/Blu-ray covers
 - games
 - leaflets
 - magazine/book covers
 - multimedia products
 - packaging
 - posters
 - web images and graphics

Does not include:

- Billboards (too high in size/resolution) although may be included in the teaching as a form of advertisement