
2.4 Performance Analysis

Introduction

Students will be required to submit evidence of their ability to undertake a performance analysis in at least one of their chosen roles.

This analysis is designed to engage the student in independent study and to reflect on their strengths and weaknesses, to understand the need for both short- and long-term development, as well as being able to support the performances of others in their chosen physical activity. In doing so the student will be able to offer pathways for personal development and link these to the other components of this unit.

Centres will be required to provide opportunities for students to undertake assignments both in the theoretical analysis of their chosen role, and through applied tasks. Students will be required to evidence a series of coursework assignments and tasks that serve to develop their performance analysis and will undertake the following five applied exercises:

- a technical analysis of four core skills in a chosen activity
- a tactical analysis including game plans and pathways for competitive success in a variety of competition contexts
- three notational exercises on teams, individuals or techniques
- a training analysis on the specific demands and the competitive requirements for individuals and/or teams
- an analysis of their own and others' strengths and weaknesses.

Assessment criteria

	Task 2.1 — Personal Performance — ‘player/participant’ (AO1, AO2)
Mark band 5 (13–15)	The student has produced a very high level of consistent performances in both the short-term preparation and the long-term training for the appropriate environments of their selected physical activity, with the basis of this being centred on a high standard of the appropriate physiological, technical, tactical and psychological aspects related to their physical activity. In addition, candidates will demonstrate a very high level of application of knowledge and understanding related to their physical activities. Where competition exists, the student has been able to produce dominant performances in a variety of competitive formats and is able to respond to, and use, the pressure of expectation to achieve successes at their level of performance/participation. Where competition does not exist, the student will have produced a very high level of performances over time, providing for a final and summative assessment relative to their physical activity.
Mark band 4 (10–12)	The student has produced a high level of consistent performances in both the short-term preparation and the long-term training for the appropriate environments of their selected physical activity, with the basis of this being centred on a very good standard of the appropriate physiological, technical, tactical and psychological aspects related to their physical activity. In addition, students will demonstrate a high level of application of knowledge and understanding related to their physical activities. Where competition exists the student has been able to produce consistent performances in a variety of competitive formats and is able to cope with the pressure of expectation to achieve successes at their level of performance/participation. Where competition does not exist, the student will have produced a high level of accumulative performances, providing for a final and summative assessment relative to their physical activity.
Mark band 3 (7–9)	The student has produced a good level of consistent performances in both the short-term preparation and the long-term training for the appropriate environments of their selected physical activity, with the basis of this being centred on a good standard of the appropriate physiological, technical, tactical and psychological aspects related to their physical activity. In addition, candidates will demonstrate a good level of application of knowledge and understanding related to their physical activities. Where competition exists the student has been able to produce reasonably consistent performances in a variety of competitive formats and is invariably able to cope with the pressure of expectation to achieve successes at their level of performance /participation. Where competition does not exist, the student will have produced a good level of accumulative performances, providing for a final and summative assessment relative to their physical activity.
Mark band 2 (4–6)	The student has produced a rudimentary level of inconsistent performances in both the short-term preparation and the long-term training for the appropriate environments of their selected physical activity, with the basis of this performance being centred on an average but limited standard of the appropriate physiological, technical, tactical and psychological aspects related to their physical activity. In addition, students will demonstrate a rudimentary level of application of knowledge and understanding related to their physical activities. Where competition exists the student has been able to produce reasonably consistent performances in a variety of competitive formats and is invariably able to cope with the pressure of expectation to achieve successes at their level of performance/participation. Where competition does not exist, the student will have produced a rudimentary level of accumulative performances, providing for a final and summative assessment relative to their physical activity.

	Task 2.1 — Personal Performance — ‘player/participant’ (AO1, AO2)
Mark band 1 (1–3)	The student has produced a performance in line with a beginner in both the short-term preparation and the long-term training for the appropriate environments of their selected physical activity, with the basis of this performance being centred on a poor standard of the appropriate physiological, technical, tactical and psychological aspects related to their physical activity. In addition, students will demonstrate a poor level of application of knowledge and understanding related to their physical activities. Where competition exists, the student has been able to produce very inconsistent performances in a variety of competitive formats and is invariably unable to cope with the pressure of expectation to achieve any successes at their level of performance/participation. Where competition does not exist, the student will have produced performances of a level in line with a beginner, providing for a final and summative assessment relative to their physical activity

Task 2.1 — Personal Performance — 'leader' (AO1, AO2)
Mark band 5 (13–15)	The student has produced a very high level of performance in leading a group, team or individual in one physical activity context during the length of the assessment period. The student has demonstrated, through a high level of applied knowledge and understanding, how to work alongside others in order to progress performances in an environment appropriate to the leader's ability and specific role. The student is fully able to recognise and act upon the strengths and weaknesses of the group, team or individual and is highly proficient in communicating, displays extensive organisational abilities and motivational skills.
Mark band 4 (10–12)	The student has produced a high level of performance in leading a group, team or individual in one physical activity context during the length of the assessment period. The student has demonstrated, through an informed level of applied knowledge and understanding, how to work alongside others in order to progress performances in an environment appropriate to the leader's ability and specific role. The student is able to recognise and act upon the strengths and weaknesses of the group, team or individual and is proficient in communicating, displaying very good organisational abilities and motivational skills.
Mark band 3 (7–9)	The student has produced a good level of performance in leading a group, team or individual in one physical activity context during the length of the assessment period. The student has demonstrated, through a sound level of applied knowledge and understanding, how to work alongside others in order to progress performances in an environment appropriate to the leader's ability and specific role. The student is normally able to recognise and act upon the strengths and weaknesses of the group, team or individual and is developing communication skills. They display good organisational abilities and motivational skills.
Mark band 2 (4–6)	The student has produced a rudimentary level of performance in leading a group, team or individual in one physical activity context during the length of the assessment period. The student has demonstrated, through an emerging level of applied knowledge and understanding, how to work alongside others in order to progress performances in an environment appropriate to the leader's ability and specific role. The student is sometimes able to recognise and act upon the strengths and weaknesses of the group, team or individual and has limited communication skills and organisational abilities while demonstrating few motivational skills.
Mark band 1 (1–3)	The student has produced a performance in line with a beginner in leading a group, team or individual in one physical activity context during the length of the assessment period. The student has demonstrated, through a basic level of applied knowledge and understanding, how to work alongside others in order to progress performances in an environment appropriate to the leader's ability and specific role. The student is rarely able to recognise and act upon the strengths and weaknesses of the group, team or individual, and has very limited communication skills and organisational abilities, while demonstrating minimal motivational skills.

	Task 2.1 — Personal Performance –‘official’ (AO1, AO2)
Mark Band 5 (13–15)	The student has been able to produce a very high standard of officiating at an appropriate performance level in one selected physical activity during the length of the assessment period. The student demonstrates an extensive knowledge and understanding of the rules/laws of the selected physical activity and can always impose authority when required to ensure that the performance is successful. The student has excellent communication, positioning and signalling skills as appropriate to the level of competition and their experience and/or recognised NGB qualification(s). The student always carries out their responsibilities with the necessary uniform, equipment and pre-officiating protocols, as required to meet the highest standards. The student has a full awareness of the performance demands required of the activity’s participant(s).
Mark Band 4 (10–12)	The student has been able to produce a high standard of officiating at an appropriate performance level in one selected physical activity during the length of the assessment period. The student demonstrates a proficient knowledge and understanding of the rules/laws of the selected physical activity and can, on most occasions, impose authority when required to ensure that the performance is successful. The student has very good communication, positioning and signalling skills as appropriate to the level of competition and their experience and/or recognised NGB qualification(s). The student can usually be relied upon to carry out their responsibilities with the necessary uniform, equipment and pre-officiating protocols as required to meet very good standards. The student has an awareness of the performance demands required of the activity’s participant(s).
Mark Band 3 (7–9)	The student has been able to produce a good standard of officiating at an appropriate performance level in one selected physical activity during the length of the assessment period. The student demonstrates a sound knowledge and understanding of the rules/laws of the selected physical activity, and can usually, but not always, impose authority when required to ensure that the performance is successful. The student has good communication, positioning and signalling skills as appropriate to the level of competition and their experience but may not hold recognised NGB qualification(s). The student can generally be relied upon to carry out their responsibilities with the necessary uniform, equipment and pre-officiating protocols as required to meet reasonable standards. The student has a limited awareness of the performance demands required of the activity’s participant(s).
Mark Band 2 (4–6)	The student has been able to produce a rudimentary standard of officiating at an appropriate performance level in one selected physical activity during the length of the assessment period. The student demonstrates an emerging knowledge and understanding of the rules/laws of the selected physical activity and can only occasionally impose authority when required to ensure that the performance is successful. The student has limited communication, positioning and signalling skills as appropriate to the level of competition and their experience and will probably not hold recognised NGB qualification(s). The student can rarely be relied upon to carry out their responsibilities with the necessary uniform, equipment and pre-officiating protocols as required to meet reasonable standards. The student has a limited awareness of the performance demands required of the activity’s participant(s).
Mark Band 1 (1–3)	The student has produced a performance in line with a beginner officiating at an appropriate performance level in one selected physical activity during the length of the assessment period. The student demonstrates a very limited knowledge and understanding of the rules/laws of the selected physical activity and can rarely impose authority when required to ensure that the performance is successful. The student has poor communication, positioning and signalling skills as appropriate to the level of competition and their experience and will have no recognised NGB qualification(s). The student can very rarely be relied upon to carry out their responsibilities with the necessary uniform, equipment and pre-officiating protocols as required to meet reasonable standards. The student has a scant awareness of the performance demands required of the activity’s participant(s).

Task 2.2 – Local Study (AO1, AO2)
Mark Band 5 (13–15)	The student has demonstrated a very high level of knowledge and understanding of the local provision in their chosen physical activity. The task has fully explored the provision, opportunities and resources available at grassroots level and at the first level of elite representation. The student will have established the provision and opportunities available at school and/or college and clubs and the wider provision and opportunities available through both public and private facilities and resources, including the part played by the voluntary sector. The student will have made full reference to the various schemes open to participants, the funding of such provision and the additional agencies and bodies involved. The student will have fully explored the provision and opportunities for disabled athletes and made reference to any gender issues. The student has made appropriate critical comments on their findings. In completing the task, the student has included significant factual detail and in all areas made reference to the development opportunities in at least one of their chosen roles as selected for Task 2.1. The task contains an extensive bibliography.
Mark Band 4 (10–12)	The student has demonstrated a high level of knowledge and understanding of the local provision in their chosen physical activity. The task has explored with some success the provision, opportunities and resources available at grassroots level and at the first level of elite representation. The student will have been able to establish the provisions and opportunities available at school and/or college and clubs and the wider provision and the opportunities available through both public and private facilities and resources, including the part played by the voluntary sector, although there will be some omissions. The student will have made reference to the various schemes open to participants, the funding of such provisions and the additional agencies and bodies involved. The student will have made reference to the provisions and opportunities for disabled athletes and to any gender issues. The student has made some critical comment on their findings. In completing the task, the student has included a range of factual detail and in most areas made reference to the development opportunities in at least one of their chosen roles as selected for Task 2.1. The task contains an appropriate bibliography.
Mark Band 3 (7–9)	The student has demonstrated a good level of knowledge and understanding of the local provision in their chosen physical activity. The task has attempted to explore with some success the provision, opportunities and resources available at grassroots level and at the first level of elite representation. The student will have attempted to establish the provision and opportunities available at school and/or college and clubs and the wider provision and the opportunities available through both public and private facilities and resources, including the part played by the voluntary sector, although there will be clear omissions. The student will have made some reference to the various schemes open to participants, the funding of such provision and the additional agencies and bodies involved. The student will have attempted to make reference to the provisions and opportunities for disabled athletes and to any gender issues. The student has included some critical comment on their findings. In completing the task the student has included examples of factual detail and made limited reference to the development opportunities in at least one of their chosen roles as selected for Task 2.1. The task contains an appropriate bibliography.

Task 2.2 – Local Study (AO1, AO2)
Mark Band 2 (4–6)	The student has demonstrated a moderate level of knowledge and understanding of the local provision in their chosen physical activity. The task has attempted to explore with limited success the provision, opportunities and resources available at grassroots level and at the first level of elite representation. The student may have attempted to establish the provision and opportunities available at school and/or college and clubs and the wider provision and the opportunities available through both public and private facilities and resources, including the part played by the voluntary sector, although there will be significant omissions. The student will have made limited reference to the various schemes open to participants, the funding of such provision and the additional agencies and bodies involved. The student will have made little reference to the provisions and opportunities for disabled athletes and to any gender issues. The student will have made only simplistic critical comments on their findings. In completing the task the student will have made few factual inclusions and made limited reference to the development opportunities in at least one of their chosen roles as selected for Task 2.1. The task may not include an appropriate bibliography.
Mark Band 1 (1–3)	The student has demonstrated a limited level of knowledge and understanding of the local provision in their chosen physical activity. The task largely failed to explore the provision, opportunities and resources available at grassroots level and at the first level of elite representation. The student will have been unable to establish the provision and opportunities available at school and/or college and clubs and the wider provision and the opportunities available through both public and private facilities and resources, including the part played by the voluntary sector. Thus there will be significant omissions. The student will have made scant reference to the various schemes open to participants, the funding of such provision and the additional agencies and bodies involved. The student will have undertaken only a simple review or reference to the provisions and opportunities for disabled athletes and to any gender issues. The student may have made no critical comments and where evident they will include simplistic critical comments on their findings. In completing the task the student will have omitted factual detail and made no reference to the development opportunities in at least one of their chosen roles as selected for Task 2.1. The task may not include an appropriate bibliography.

Task 2.3 — National Study (AO1, AO2)
Mark Band 5 (13–15)	The student has demonstrated a very high level of knowledge and understanding of the national provision in their chosen physical activity. The task has fully explored the structures, pathways and provisions for either a performer, leader or official to progress from first-level elite representation through to area, county, regional and national selection. The student will have established in detail the role and functions of sporting academies and the process of talent identification. The task fully explores relevant information pertaining to the role played by schools, clubs, area and county associations and the part played by national governing bodies and professional structures. The student will have made full reference to the various schemes open to participants, the funding of such provisions and the additional agencies and bodies involved. The student will have fully explored, where applicable, the elite provisions and opportunities for disabled athletes in their physical activity and/or participation role and made reference to any gender issues. The student has been able to make appropriate critical comments on their findings. In completing the task the student has included significant factual detail. The task contains an extensive bibliography.
Mark Band 4 (10–12)	The student has demonstrated a high level of knowledge and understanding of the national provision in their chosen physical activity. The task has explored the structures, pathways and provisions for either a performer, leader or official to progress from first-level elite representation through to area, county, regional and national selection, although there may be some omissions. The student will have attempted to establish the role and functions of sporting academies and the process of talent identification. The task explores relevant information pertaining to the role played by schools, clubs, area and county associations and the part played by national governing bodies and professional structures. The student will have made some reference to the various schemes open to participants, the funding of such provisions and the additional agencies and bodies involved. The student will have explored, where applicable, the elite provisions and opportunities for disabled athletes in their physical activity and/or participation role and made reference to any gender issues. The student has been able to make some critical comments on their findings. In completing the task the student has included a range of factual detail. The task contains an appropriate bibliography.
Mark Band 3 (7–9)	The student has demonstrated a good level of knowledge and understanding of the national provision in their chosen physical activity. The task has attempted to explore the structures, pathways and provisions for either a performer, leader or official to progress from first-level elite representation through to area, county, regional and national selection, although there will be clear omissions. The student will have attempted to establish the role and functions of sporting academies and the process of talent identification. The task contains some information pertaining to the role played by schools, clubs, area and county associations and the part played by national governing bodies and professional structures. The student will have made some reference to the various schemes open to participants, the funding of such provisions and the additional agencies and bodies involved. The student will have made mention of, in no detail and where applicable, the elite provisions and opportunities for disabled athletes in their physical activity and/or participation role and made reference to any gender issues. The student has included some critical comments on their findings. In completing the task the student has included some factual detail. The task contains a bibliography.

Task 2.3 — National Study (AO1, AO2)
Mark Band 2 (4–6)	The student has demonstrated a moderate level of knowledge and understanding of the national provision in their chosen physical activity. The task has attempted to explore, with limited success and detail, the structures, pathways and provisions for either a performer, leader or official to progress from first-level elite representation through to area, county, regional and national selection, although there will be clear omissions. The student may have attempted to establish the role and functions of sporting academies and the process of talent identification. The task fails to contain detailed information pertaining to the role played by schools, clubs, area and county associations and the part played by national governing bodies and professional structures. The student will have made little reference to the various schemes open to participants, the funding of such provisions and the additional agencies and bodies involved. The student will have made mention of, in no detail and where applicable, the elite provisions and opportunities for disabled athletes in their physical activity and/or participation role and made reference to any gender issues. The student will have included simplistic critical comments on their findings. In completing the task the student has included few factual details. The task may not contain an appropriate bibliography.
Mark Band 1 (1–3)	The student has demonstrated a limited level of knowledge and understanding of the national provision in their chosen physical activity. The task has largely failed to explore, the structures, pathways and provisions for either a performer, leader or official to progress from first-level elite representation through to area, county, regional and national selection, although there will be significant omissions. The student may have attempted to establish the role and functions of sporting academies and the process of talent identification. The task fails to contain detailed information pertaining to the role played by schools, clubs, area and county associations and the part played by national governing bodies and professional structures. The student will have made scant reference to the various schemes open to participants, the funding of such provisions and the additional agencies and bodies involved. The student will have made mention of, in no detail and where applicable, the elite provisions and opportunities for disabled athletes in their physical activity and/or participation role and made no reference to any gender issues. The student will have included no critical comments on their findings. In completing the task the student will have omitted factual details. The task may not contain an appropriate bibliography.

Task 2.4 — Performance Analysis (AO1, AO2, AO3)
Mark Band 5 (25–30)	The student has produced a very high standard of analysis tasks which have enabled them to demonstrate a significant level of knowledge and understanding in their chosen performance role. This understanding has clear technical accuracy and depth, the range of information is extensive and there is clarity. The student selects and uses both varied and appropriate presentation formats. In undertaking their analysis the student has been able to demonstrate and discuss with their centre staff or others full and extensive application to their own performance and to scenarios. The student will have fully completed all analysis tasks. These will have enabled the student to apply their knowledge and understanding in raising and developing their practical performance to a significant degree. In addition, through application, they are able to successfully influence the performance of others. The analysis tasks will be fully referenced and contain an extensive bibliography.
Mark Band 4 (19–24)	The student has produced a very good standard of analysis tasks which have enabled them to demonstrate a clear knowledge and understanding of their chosen performance role. This understanding has acceptable technical accuracy and depth, and the range of information is very good. The clarity and use of appropriate presentation formats are acceptable. In undertaking their analysis the student has been able to show and discuss with their centre staff or others relevant application to their own performance. However, they may still need a little prompting in the more complex situations or scenarios beyond their normal level of participation. The completed analysis tasks have enabled the student to apply their knowledge and understanding in raising and developing their practical performance. Through application they have on occasions been able to influence the performance of others. The analysis tasks will be referenced and contain an appropriate bibliography.
Mark Band 3 (13–18)	The student has produced a good standard of analysis tasks which have enabled them to demonstrate a general understanding of their chosen performance role. This understanding has reasonable technical accuracy and some depth, while the range of information is good and the clarity and use of appropriate presentation formats are basic in design. In undertaking their analysis the student has been able, at times, to show some relevant application to their own performance. However, they will still need prompting in the more complex situations or scenarios when in discussion with others. The range of analysis tasks may include some that are incomplete, therefore students will have been able to apply only some of their knowledge and understanding in raising and developing their practical performance. Through application they will have achieved only limited success in being able to influence the performance of others. The analysis tasks will contain references and a bibliography.
Mark Band 2 (7–12)	The student has produced a moderate standard of analysis tasks which have enabled them to demonstrate a limited knowledge and understanding of their chosen performance role. This understanding has some technical accuracy and lacks real depth, while the range of information is indifferent. The clarity and use of appropriate presentation formats are simplistic in design. In undertaking their analysis the student has only occasionally shown a limited application to their performance and will need a significant level of prompting from others in order to discuss more complex situations or scenarios beyond their normal level of participation. The analysis tasks will in some cases be incomplete, therefore the student will have applied only a limited level of knowledge and understanding in attempting to raise and develop their practical performance. Through application they have largely been unable to influence the performance of others. The analysis tasks will contain limited references and limited bibliography.

	Task 2.4 – Performance Analysis (AO1, AO2, AO3)
Mark Band 1 (1–6)	The student has produced a limited standard of analysis tasks which have enabled them to demonstrate a very limited knowledge and understanding of their chosen performance role. This understanding has no real technical accuracy and is lacking in any depth. The range of information is limited and the clarity and use of appropriate presentation formats are very simplistic in design. In undertaking their analysis the student has largely been unable to show any application to their performance. The student will need constant prompting from others in order to discuss more complex situations or scenarios when applied to the normal level of participation. The analysis tasks will, in most cases, be incomplete, and will have enabled the student to apply only a basic level of knowledge and understanding in attempting to raise and develop their practical performance. Through application they have been unable to influence the performance of others. The analysis tasks will contain few, if any, references and a limited bibliography.

Calculation of marks for Task 2.4 — Performance Analysis

The fundamental nature of Task 2.4 engages students in five prescribed assessment tasks. Given the broad diversity of the practical performance physical activities open to students, the range of roles that can be undertaken while leading in physical activity and the unique nature of officiating. A common set of criteria has been written that can be applied to all six tasks in any of the three participation roles.

Each assessment task has a total mark of six which is divided into three criteria. Centres are required to assess the evidence of the task undertaken in relation to the relevance and context to the student's chosen performance role and their standard or level of participation. In making such judgements centre assessor staff must also make reference to the complexity of the tasks completed.

Assessment rubric:

Students are required to complete the five stated analysis exercises. Task 2.4 is worth a total of 30 marks. This mark can be calculated, as illustrated below, by marking each exercise out of six, and combining these marks to achieve a mark out of 30.

Criteria		Mark
1	Clarity of presentation and technical accuracy	0–2
2	Breadth and depth of information	0–2
3	Relevance to student's development as a performer	0–2

Unit description

Students will develop a knowledge and understanding of the short- and long-term physiological and psychological preparations made by elite athletes.

They will consider the short- and long-term technical preparations required, eg selection of appropriate kit and equipment, the use of training camps, different types of ergonomic aids.

Assessment information

The assessment of this unit is through a 2-hour examination paper which is set and marked by Pearson.

The paper will be a question-and-answer booklet and all questions in the paper are compulsory. The paper will consist of short-answer and extended-writing type questions.

The total marks for the paper are 90.
