
What students need to do

4.1 Development Plan

Introduction

This task requires students to select one of the roles undertaken for Task 2.1: Personal Performance in Unit 2 and plan, research, perform, record, review and evaluate a related development plan.

Planning and research will form component one. Recording and reviewing will form component two, and the review and evaluation will form component three, as reflected in the mark scheme. The development plan will require the applied use of the appropriate knowledge and understanding related to a specific area, designed to further develop the student's performance in their chosen role.

The development plan is required to be undertaken over an appropriate period, but not less than eight weeks, and evidenced with an evaluation of the outcomes achieved. Students may include testimonial evidence, video and photographic evidence and log details in order to validate the plan.

Player/participant

Students will have the option to focus their development plan on specifically improving their performance in one performance area, or role.

The development plan may cover physiological weaknesses or technical developments such as specific techniques for a physical activity — for example, working to eradicate a weak backhand in a racket sport or to refine a technique such as a bowling action in cricket or throwing-in at line-outs in rugby.

This task must be personal to the individual and not undertaken as a group session.
