

6 Religion and society	6.1 The interpretation and application of ahimsa for a Buddhist in the modern world (4) a) The First Precept — to refrain from harming a living thing, the interpretation of ahimsa by Buddhists with specific examples of how this may be lived, such as vegetarianism, right livelihood and involvement in the armed forces. b) The role of other beliefs and considerations in the living of ahimsa, including differences in application and importance within different traditions, and in the example of the Buddha. Specific reference should be made to excerpts of the Pali Canon and the Lotus Sutra. With reference to the ideas of the 14th Dalai Lama and T Bartholomeusz.
	6.2 Issues in contemporary society a) The significance of teachings that underpin involvement and support in and for liberationist approaches to religion and society, religious freedom, religious tolerance, pluralism and interfaith dialogue for Buddhists in a multicultural society. b) The ways that Buddhists respond to diversity in different traditions of Buddhism. How different Buddhist traditions view other religious and non-religious world views and their truth claims. c) The benefits, extent of the involvement and potential barriers from a Buddhist context, including the difference in application and importance of interfaith dialogue in light of different traditions of Buddhism, including the different cultural and country contexts in which Buddhists are found. d) Buddhist teachings and responses to issues of science. How Buddhism has responded to these in the historical and contemporary world. With reference to the ideas of the 14th Dalai Lama and K Sri Dhammananda.
