

|                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                      |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 2.5 Tropical cyclones are extreme weather events that develop under specific conditions and in certain locations | a. How the global circulation of the atmosphere leads to tropical cyclones (hurricanes and typhoons) in source areas and the sequence of their formation. (2) |
|                                                                                                                                | b. Characteristics, frequency and geographical distribution of tropical cyclones and how these change over time.                                              |